WEST VIRGINIA SUPREME COURT OF APPEALS

STATISTICAL ACTIVITY

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

The statistical summary depicted on page 3 lists the various applications filed, granted, refused, and the cases disposed and pending, according to the various case categories.

There were 1,621 applications filed with the court in 1988. Although this number was 416 less than for 1987, it still represents the second highest rate of filings recorded by the court. The greatest part of the reduction in applications occurred in the Worker's Compensation area. There were 841 compensation applications filed in 1987 but only 488 in 1988. Applications decreased in 1988 by 416, but fully 353 of those cases were compensation cases. When compensation applications are removed from consideration, the caseload of the court remained relatively constant during 1987 and 1988.

Although there were 1,621 applications filed during 1988, the court actually reviewed 1,808 applications, since several were carried over from the previous year. Of the applications reviewed 1,019 were refused and 789 were granted. The number of refusals by the court remained extremely consistent with a 56% refusal rate in 1988 that matched the 56% refusal rate in 1987.

Despite the decline in total applications, there were actually more cases granted in 1988 than in any previous year. The previous high of 785 applications granted occurred in 1987. The 1988 figure was slightly greater with 789 applications being granted.

During 1987 a great increase occurred in the number of cases that were disposed by order or opinion. That higher level of disposal continued into 1988. Prior to 1987 the highest disposal rate was 498 cases; in 1987 it jumped to 775. Disposal at this higher level continued in 1988 with 756 cases disposed, making 1988 the second greatest year for case disposition. Of the 756 cases disposed, 249 were by opinion, 398 by order, 91 were dismissed, and 18 were withdrawn.

Most significantly it should be noted that a greater number of cases were completed in 1988 than were filed. With 1,019 cases refused and 756 cases disposed the court actually completed handling of 1,775 cases. During this same period only 1,621 applications were filed. The disposal ratio for the court was 1.095 during 1988, actually indicating that 9½% more cases were disposed than were filed. Besides the excellent disposal ratio, the court maintained a small pending caseload. There were only 431 granted cases still pending at the end of 1988.

After five years of increasing applications, the number decreased in 1988. The decrease occurred in the number of compensation applications received with the other categories remaining at or near past levels. The court maintained the high level of case dispositions that was prevalent in 1987 and was able to complete 154 more cases than were received.

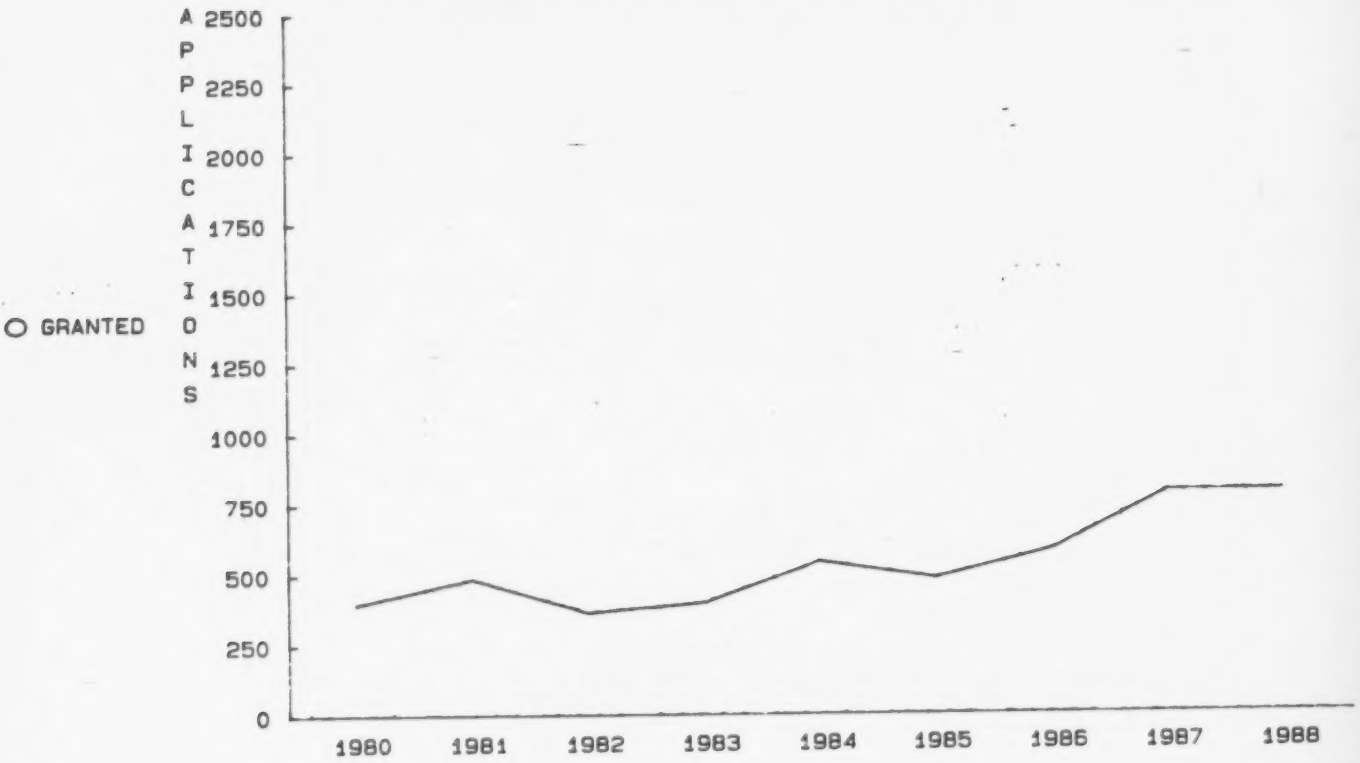
From 1983 through 1987 the number of applications to the court continued to grow. That trend was reversed in 1988. From a low of 1,116 in 1982, applications increased to 2,037 in 1987. With compensation applications returning to normal levels in 1988, the total applications received by the court dropped to 1,621. Despite the drop in applications, more applications were granted than ever. The 789 applications granted amounted to 44% of the applications reviewed by the court. The court also granted over 44% of the cases it reviewed in 1987.

SUPREME COURT APPLICATIONS



SUPREME COURT APPLICATIONS

From 1982 until 1987, applications to the court increased each year. The number of applications decreased to 1,621 in 1988. Despite the decrease in applications, the number of cases granted by the court increased to its highest level. A total of 789 cases were granted in 1988, eclipsing the figure of 785 recorded in 1987.

Year	1980	1981	1982	1983	1984	1985	1986	1987	1988

During 1988 the number of applications to the court did decrease with the greatest part of the decrease occurring in the Workers Compensation caseload. From a high of 841 in 1987, compensation applications dropped to 488 in 1988. Compensation cases had comprised 41% of the caseload in 1987, but only accounted for 30% of the caseload in 1988.

Distribution of the other case types remained near that of previous years.

During 1988 there were 756 cases disposed by the court. There were 249 cases disposed by opinions. This figure represents the second highest number of cases disposed by opinion in one year and is only exceeded by the 1982 figure of 316 opinions.

The number of cases disposed by order was also the second greatest recorded by the court. There were 398 orders entered in 1988. The only year that produced more orders was 1987 when the large number of Worker's Compensation orders were entered.

More cases were dismissed in 1988 than any other year. There were 91 dismissals compared to the previous high of 56 in 1987. There were also 18 cases withdrawn in 1988.

During 1988 case disposal times were very near the disposal times for 1987. In 1987 the average processing time for a case was 462 days; in 1988 that time was 474 days. During most of the steps in processing a case, the time periods were very close to the 1987 figures. The time from submission of the case until the issue of the order or opinion increased by 14 days from 89 days to 103 days. This increase was the most significant factor for the overall increase in 1988.

Since automated time studies were initiated in 1983 there has been great improvement in the processing time for appellate cases.

EXECUTIVE SUMMARY

CIRCUIT COURT

During calendar year 1988, the 31st Judicial Circuit (primarily Berkeley County) retained its position of having the greatest overall Per Judge activity in the State. The 31st led the State in case filings with 1,290 new cases to be handled by the single judge assigned. The 31st Circuit also had the second highest case disposition per judge but still had 1,446 cases pending at the end of 1988.

The 11th Judicial Circuit (Greenbrier, Monroe, Summers, and Pocahontas Counties) displaced the 13th Circuit as the second busiest in the State. The 11th Circuit accounted for the second highest rate of filings per judge in the State and the 4th highest disposal rate. The caseload in the 11th Circuit is made even more demanding due to its four-county composition and the distances that must be traveled between these counties.

The 5th Judicial Circuit of Jackson, Roane, and Calhoun Counties had the 3rd highest activity in 1988, up one ranking from 1987. Case filings have been consistently high, ranking 3rd in the State in both 1987 and 1988.

The 13th Judicial Circuit (Kanawha County) dropped from second to fourth most active in 1988. The higher ranking in 1987 was due to the implementation of a "master calendar" case scheduling system and the identification of many inactive cases that could be easily disposed. An average of 923 cases per judge were disposed in 1988 but there were also 12,666 cases pending at the end of the year. This pending figure which amounts to 1,809 cases per judge equals almost two years' work at current disposal rates in the 13th Circuit.

The 23rd Circuit (primarily Jefferson and Morgan Counties) moved from the 6th most active in 1987 to 5th in 1988. The 23rd accounted for the 3rd highest disposal rate in the State and did decrease the number of pending cases by 228 during the course of the year.

The 24th Judicial Circuit (Wayne County) had the highest disposal rate in the State with 1,387 cases disposed in 1988. The 24th also had the 4th highest filing rate. Despite this high volume of activity, the number of pending cases remains low. The 24th ranked 20th in the State in cases pending per judge with only 681 on hand at year's end.

The highest number of pending cases per judge exists in the 15th Circuit of Harrison County.

For 1988 the highest filing rate per judge was in Berkeley County and the 31st Circuit. The highest disposal rate per judge was in the 24th Circuit of Wayne County.

The highest number of cases pending per judge was in the 15th Circuit of Harrison County.

During 1988, circuit judges disposed of 2,138 fewer cases than were filed. Filings for 1988 were up compared to the 1987 level. There were 54,282 cases filed in 1988 compared to just over 51,000 in 1987.

Although filings went up, the number of case dispositions went down. There were 55,433 dispositions in 1987 but only 52,144 in 1988.

The number of cases on hand increased to 59,478 by the end of 1988. This figure of 991 cases pending per judge equals nearly 14 months of work at current disposal rates. Almost exactly one year of work was on hand at the end of 1987.

During 1988 the downward trend in case filing was reversed. Although filings have not returned to the area of 65,000 cases as experienced in the early 1980's, there was an increase of 3,096 cases. From the low of 51,186 case filings in 1987, activity increased to 54,282 in 1988. This 1988 figure is extremely close to filing levels in 1986 and may signal a return to higher filings in the future. Increased filings played a part in the sharp increase in pending cases during 1988. There were 59,478 cases pending at year's end.

* = Time Standard

Measures of the Circuit Court's performance in relation to the time standards recommended by the Conference of Chief Justices and the Conference of State Court Administrators were made in 1988.

Generally, the performance during 1988 was not as good as that experienced in 1987. A higher percentage of cases exceeded the time standards in every category measured. The percentage of adoptions exceeding the guideline went from 5% to 15%, mental hygiene from 3% to 5%, administrative agency appeals from 16% to 50%, general civil cases from 34% to 40%, felonies from 50% to 53%, misdemeanors from 65% to 68%, and juvenile cases from 74% to 79%.

These figures correspond with the lower disposal rate in 1988 which would directly relate to longer disposal times for the cases processed.

During 1988 the percentage of the case filings categorized as civil increased from 72.9% of total filings to 74.4%. Unfortunately, the cases in the "general civil" category actually decreased by 4.5% with the increase occurring in adoption, divorce, and mental health. The number of criminal and juvenile case filings both decreased in 1988.

MAGISTRATE COURT

In 1988 Kanawha County Magistrate Court once again experienced the greatest case activity per magistrate. Both the filing rate and disposal rate were the highest in the state. There were 4,524 cases filed per magistrate and 4,793 disposed so the number of cases pending was decreased by 2,690.

Raleigh County was once again the second busiest with 3,610 cases filed per magistrate and 3,444 disposed.

Berkeley County moved to a position of third most active in 1988.

Magistrate Court filings decreased during 1988 by 6,117 cases. This reverses an upward trend that began in 1984. The decrease actually amounts to less than 2% of filings and appears to be just a normal fluctuation in filing levels.

Magistrate financial activity for the first half of FY 1988-89 was $6,976,821.63. This is down only slightly from the corresponding period of the previous year when there was $7,101,947.89 of financial activity. This slight decrease shows close correlation to the small decrease experienced in magistrate court filings for 1988.

PROBATION ACTIVITY

The inexorable increase in the number of court-supervised probationers continued in 1988 with the adult population increasing from 3,774 to 4,213 and the juvenile population rising from 1,404 to 1,768. This increase of 803 probationers added to the already high caseload of our officers. The average caseload per officer is now 71, with a caseload of 35 a recommended optimum.
